Drama of Death—Sorrow, fear, illness . . . all these were components today of the tragic drama being enacted at Charlestown State prison, where sometime this week Walter St. Sauveur, top inset, and Wallace Green, bottom inset, will walk to their deaths in the electric chair, barring last-minute executive clemency. At left are Mrs. Alexander Green, Wallace's mother, being comforted by Wallace's sister, May. At right is Executioner Robert Elliott, critically ill in his New York home and unable to perform the scheduled execution. Efforts were being made today to get a substitute executioner. HURL 300 BOMBS; 34 HURT IN STRIKE

CLEVELAND, July 31 (AP)—A club-wielding, brick-tossing and tear gas bombing riot at the strikebound Fisher Body plant of General Motors Corporation today injured 34 persons, none seriously.

A crowd of CIO United Automobile Workers, estimated by police at 5000 to 6000, massed at the gates to "stop the plant."

Police Capt. Michael J. Blackwood said fighting started after a brick was thrown through the window of an automobile carrying several non-strikers into the plant.

300 BOMBS HURLED

At least 300 tear gas shells and bombs were thrown in the rioting, Blackwood said.

From a third floor window of the sprawling factory a policeman mounted a long-range tear gas gun which spat gas shells 300 yards into the crowd.

Blackwood said that strikers replied with tear gas shells and grenades.

Twelve persons were arrested and released later on waivers. Three admitted operating a sound truck without permits, and nine admitted creating a disturbance.

A short time later a truce was effected by Police Chief George J. Matowitz.

TURN HOSE ON MOB

Company officials said the plant was operating, as it has been throughout the strike, called three weeks ago by tool and die workers to press demands for a supplemental agreement.

The company said 463 persons, including office employes, entered the plant today. About 700 normally are employed at this season.

"Police were ordered not to fire any bullets unless the strikers stormed the plant," Captain Blackwood said.

Two fire department pumpers played streams of water into the shouting crowd, dispelling demonstrators.

Officials of White Motor Co., three miles away and not affected by the strike, closed their plant because only 400 of a regular work force of 1200 reported. Many of the White Motor workers were on the picket line at Fisher, Blackwood said.

PLAY TOSS WITH BOMBS

Many of those injured were non-striking employes attempting to enter the plant.

Tear gas bombs thrown by police were picked up and tossed back by pickets in several instances. When the gas failed to disperse the crowd, police turned the fire hose on the pickets.

After the rioting, demonstrators collected around Donovan's Loop, a barroom.

From a sound truck came the announcement: "There are 10,000 here today. There will be be 20,000 tomorrow, if necessary."

CARDINAL AND ARCHBISHOP

MASS FOR MOTHER—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman (right) of New York today said a mass in memory of his mother at Whitman's Church of the Holy Ghost, following celebration of high mass by Enrico Cardinal Gasparri (left) of Rome.

BISHOP SPELLMAN HONORS MOTHER

WHITMAN, July 31—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York came home today on a brief pilgrimage of sorrow, to say a mass in memory of his mother, Mrs. William Spellman, who died four years ago to the day.

Following a high mass said by Enrico Cardinal Gasparri, president of the Supreme Tribunal of the Roman Catholic Church, who accompanied the Archbishop from New York, Archbishop Spellman said a requiem mass at the little Church of the Holy Ghost here, assisted by the Rev. John J. Starr, pastor of the Spellman home parish.

The church was crowded with old friends of the Spellman family and fellow parishioners of the prelate's childhood.

After the double service, they crowded around the "home boy" whose record of service in the church may soon reward him with a cardinalate, kissing his episcopal ring, and asking his blessing.

Staying with the archbishop's father, William Spellman, on the anniversary of their mother's death were two of the prelate's brothers, two sisters, and two nephews.

They were Dr. John and Dr. Martin Spellman, Mrs. Arthur Pegman, and Mrs. George Garrity. Little Martin and John Pegman, nephews of the archbishop, were with their mother.

Following the services, the Archbishop returned to the family home, making his way, smiling, through the crowd of well wishers who wanted to speak to him and render homage to the prince of the church whom many had seen grow from childhood.

Tomorrow he will return to New York, while his guest, Cardinal Gasparri, goes on tonight to Montreal for a brief rest.

Cardinal Gasparri was accompanied by the Rev. Leonard Sweeney, vice-rector of St. Patrick's College, Ottawa.

Significance was seen in Cardinal Gasparri's visit when it was recalled that Pope Pius XII, then Cardinal Pacelli, paid a similar visit to the present Archbishop when he visited the United States. It was believed the visit may presage the Archbishop's elevation to the high rank of Cardinal.

Deal to Push Fight For Lending Plan In Face of Revolt

(By the Associated Press)

Amid rebellions in both Senate and House, leaders report to President Roosevelt on pre-adjournment situation.

Senate approaches vote on curtailed lending program; House committee reduces funds. House, holding key to adjournment, debates minor bills before acting tomorrow on housing program.

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—President Roosevelt's lieutenants, confronted with a refractory, adjournment-bent Congress, declared their determination today to make a finish fight for the amendment-riddled lending program.

Both the Senate and the House Banking committee punched big holes in the Lending Bill last week, but Senator Barkley (D.) of Kentucky, the majority leader, and Speaker Bankhead told reporters they saw no reason to drop the battle for its enactment in some form.

After President Roosevelt's return to the White House today from a week-end fishing trip, the Senate and House leaders were expected to report they would stand behind him for a showdown on the lending plan.

It was the most important measure still being debated, but the legislators, weary after the seven-months' session, were interested primarily in the question—"When are we going home?"

While leaders tentatively have set next Saturday as the adjournment deadline, House Leader Rayburn (D.) of Texas has emphasized that Congress cannot quit then if the House is to act on lending, housing and wage-hour legislation.

The Senate already has approved the housing measure, which doubles the $800,000,000 borrowing power of the United States Housing Authority and does not plan to act on amendments to the wage-hour law at this session.

Senator Barkley was hopeful that the curtailed lending measure would receive Senate approval before midnight.

The key to adjournment thus was held by the House, where a coalition of Republicans and dissenting Democrats has been controlling much of the procedure.

Whether the House would lock Congress here indefinitely or open the door to adjournment was expected to depend in part on the advice President Roosevelt givese his Congressional lieutenants this week.

House leaders said it was possible that they might delay consideration of the housing bill in order to take up the lending measure.

LIFTING FOG LETS SHIPS MOVE AGAIN

With air and water traffic slowly coming to life after a week-end of sluggishness enforced by mists shrouding waterways, light showers were predicted today, with a return of clear and cooling weather by nightfall.

Two passenger liners docked in Boston. The Lady Nelson of the Canadian National was only a half hour late from the West Indies and Bermuda with 143 passengers, while the liner Nova Scotia, which was held in quarantine overnight, docked with 75 passengers.

Several other ships, some of which have been held in the outer harbor since yesterday afternoon, made preparations to dock later in the day.

At the same time, weather bureau records disclosed that July temperatures have been close to the normal key in for the month here, while clear skies have set a near record for dry "perfect vacation" days.

Precipitation has amounted to but 0.67 of an inch, 2.82 inches below the normal for July. The temperature, on the other hand, has hovered 2-3 of a degree above normal.

The month's warmest day was July 8, when the mercury hit 93 degrees—only five days after the month's low the day before the Fourth of 56.

Gentle breezes from a general southeasterly direction were predicted for today and tonight, with a light fog wisping over parts of Cape Cod due to disappear during the day.

THE WEATHER

LOCAL—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature; gentle to moderate southwest winds shifting to west or northwest.

CONNECTICUT AND RHODE ISLAND—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; slightly cooler in the interior tonight.

MAINE—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday except light showers tonight in north and east portions; slightly cooler Tuesday.

NEW HAMPSHIRE AND VERMONT—Generally fair and cooler tonight and Tuesday except light showers in north portion tonight.

SISTER ASKS MERCY FOR DOOMED YOUTH

CLEMENCY PLEA — As state sought executioner for electrocution of Wallace Green and Walter St. Sauveur, sister of one, May Green, urged governor to show mercy to the $3.50 Somerville slayers.

'Mr. X' to Kill Two Boy Slayers in Chair

"Mr. X," a mystery man, was engaged today to throw the death switch tomorrow night at the execution of Wallace Green and Walter St. Sauveur, youthful slayers of a Somerville storekeeper. As State Prison Warden Francis J. W. Lanagan announced success of his 11th-hour effort to obtain a substitute executioner, in place of aged and ailing Robert G. Elliott of New York, scores of volunteers for the gruesome task were offering their services.

These volunteers included neighbors and friends of the murder victim, elderly William Phillips, who was shot down in a "$3.50 holdup" in his little store in Perkins street, Somerville.

At the same time today, bereaved members of the slain man's family were firm in their demand that the killers pay the full penalty prescribed by the law.

Miss Christine Phillips, 20-year-old daughter of the murdered storekeeper, said:

"The Bible tells us, 'An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and a life for a life.' That 's the way I feel."

In dramatic contrast to her stand was that of another sorrowful young girl, 17-year-old May Green, sister of one of the doomed youth.

She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Green, planned a second and final plea to Governor Saltonstall for executive clemency.

ROBERT ELLIOTT
Can't Pull Switch

Meanwhile, at the state prison in Charlestown, preparations for the double execution were in progress.

NO CHAIR EXPERIENCE

Refusing to name or otherwise identify the substitute executioner, Warden Lanagan would say only that the man is about 45 years old from "out of town" and has had "no prison experience."

Asked directly if the man had ever officiated at an electrocution, the warden said he had not. He intimated, however, that the substitute switch-thrower is an electrician by trade.

The condemned youths were still in the Cherry Hill section of the prison today, occupying adjacent cells with a guard on watch over them at all times.

Warden Lanagan said they would be moved to the deathhouse after breakfast tomorrow morning, but would be transferred separately, so they would have no opportunity to meet each other face to face.

SNARLING FOES NOW

This arrangement was apparently made in recognition of the bitter enmity which had turned the former friendship of the doomed pair to snarling hatred.

Each of the two protests his innocence and blames the other for his present plight.

CLERGYMAN HELD ON GIRL'S STORY

Pale and hollow-eyed after a night of prayerful vigil in a police cell, the Rev. George Decatur Neal, 48-year-old Cambridge clergyman, was held in $1500 bail in Newton court today on a serious charge made against him by the 10-year-old daughter of a Newton policeman.

Hearing of the case was put over by Judge Thomas Weston until August 7, after the clergyman had refused to plead. Police said, however, that he had signed a confession, telling them in abject repentance that "this is the first time the devil ever got into me."

Rev. G. D. Neal

Neal, who makes his home in Quincy street, Cambridge, and is engaged in theological research, was arrested on a warrant after the girl had told her father that a gray-haired man who gave her a dime had lured her from the Hurr playground, Park street, Newton Center, to the Underwood school last Thursday.

Police said Neal denied any knowledge of attacks on two other little girls, one of them also the daughter of another police officer, last Tuesday.

The minister, who is a native of Brockton and unmarried, was educated at Tilton Seminary, Meadville Theological School at the University of Chicago and the Episcopal School at Cambridge.

Ordained a minister in 1926, he was pastor of a Lawrence church until 1931, when he was transferred to a Dorchester parish. He has been engaged in theological research at the New Church Theological School, where he has been stationed since May 1.

Society 'Ideal Bride' Tells of 3 Black Eyes

SALEM, July 31—Hailed by Boston and Philadelphia society as the "perfect love match of 1934," her marriage to wealthy, handsome and popular young James William Pond, Groton and Harvard graduate, brought her "three black eyes and countless heartbreaks," Mrs. Hortense Clementine Clark Paul of Beverly Farms testified today.

She took the witness stand in probate court in support of her petition for divorce on grounds of cruelty.

Her suit and plea for custody of one child, James William Paul, Jr., four, were taken under advisement by Judge John A. Costello.

"CAME HOME DRUNK"

Attractive young Mrs. Paul, former Junior League and Vincent Club member, told the court:

"My husband's heavy drinking lead to a number of quarrels between us, beginning in August, 1936.

"At that time he came home very intoxicated one day and went upstairs to bed.

"When I tried to talk to him, he became violently angry and struck me on the face, bruising my eye so that it turned black later.

"Again in November of the same year, he blackened my eye when he was drunk. He became so violent on this occasion I had to call police to quiet him.

DEFENDED WITH CLUB

"In October, 1937, I met my husband in Boston. He was very drunk, so much so that I had extreme difficulty in getting him home to Beverly.

"I had more trouble with him at the house and I was obliged to call my parents to help me. My husband struck my father and struck me, too.

"I became hysterical and was so upset I had to have hospital treatment for several days.

"On still another occasion, my husband threatened me, but my sister picked up a golf club and defended me."

PROMINENT IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Paul said she left her husband finally in November, 1938.

A witness in her behalf today was Mrs. Margaret Stockton Adams, socially prominent daughter of a Boston banker.

Mrs. Paul is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hnery Cannon Clark of Beverly.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Paul of Philadelphia and Chester Springs, Pa. He was graduated from Harvard in 1[illegible].

His clubs at Harvard include A. D. Hasty Pudding and Tennis and Racquet.

KILLER, 70, SURRENDERS; YOUNG GIRL TRYSTS BARED

Allen, accused of having killed Chief George M. Dickey, 78, Saturday night after he had been trapped in a barn on his farm with a 15-year-old girl, gave himself up at the home of his brother.

Allen himself telephoned Cynthiana authorities from the home of his brother, Alvin, where he suddenly appeared during the night.

Chief Dickey

The aged farmer first declared that he mistook Dickey for a chicken thief, but later admitted that he recognized the police chief.

Allen made no statement regarding his alleged tryst in the barn, where he was surrounded by a huge posse after Dickey had been shot.

Allen was taken immediately to the Fayette county jail in Lexington for further questioning. Authorities feared for the safety of the prisoner in Cynthiana.

For many hours from Saturday night to early Sunday, Allen, a mild-looking, gray-haired and partly bald "model husband," stood off an attacking force of hundreds of police, firemen and volunteers.

Later they took into custody Evelyn Castle, 15, and said the girl admitted she was with Allen during part of the siege.

Both said the girl signed a statement in which she admitted that she and several other girls, all between the ages of 12 and 15, had for "more than a year" kept trysts with Allen in the barn. Allen paid them small sums of money on each occasion.

Allen's 65-year-old wife, who was sheeping in Cynthiana when the battle started, collapsed when she returned home. She was placed under a doctor's care. She was quoted as saying she had always considered Allen a "model husband."

COMMANDER AND MRS. OWEN A. GALVIN
At D. A. V. Convention Headquarters

1000 Disabled Vets Open Hub Conclave

Their troubles forgotten in the joy of reunion, more than 1000 members of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War met in national convention at the Hotel Statler today to record their impressions of major national problems.

Among the matters of national import scheduled to come up, as the veterans opened the first business meeting of their week-long gathering, was a resolution commending the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee for its vote against the Roosevelt-inspired neutrality bill which most of the veterans feel was a virtual certainty to plunge the country into another war.

The resolution was drafted by the Massachusetts Department of the organization, and holds that killing a measure endangering the United States with another such mistake as cost many of the assembled veterans their health was a public service of a high order.

CITY, STATE GREETINGS

The convention was formally opened with greetings from State Adjutant-General Edgar O. Erickson, representing Governor Saltonstall, and City Council President George A. Murray, acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Tobin. Opening of the business meeting followed.

At the same time, the Trench Rats, playboy organization of the D. A. V., held secret conclaves planning a "horribles" procession for Wednesday night. Among the gaudily costumed "rodents" were two delegates whose total weight aggregated more than 600 pounds.

Having last seen each other as slender striplings, when they were with the A. E. F., the pair of 300 pounders, Joseph C. Kalinsky of Middletown, Conn., and J. W. Wiley of Wichita, Kans., were making the most of their unexpected reunion.

MAUDE BOOTH GUEST

A popular visitor to the convention was "General" Maude Ballington Booth, kindly, gray-haired woman who was known in the trenches as "the little mother of the A. E. F."

As head of the Volunteers of America, Miss Booth distinguished herself for her war work in France, and after the armistice accompanied the army of occupation across the Rhine.

Many of the delegates left hospital beds, with permission of doctors, for a few days' "freedom," to attend the week-long session.

Members and auxiliary delegates have registered from every state of the Union, headed by National Commander Owen A. Galvin of Minneapolis.

"FED UP"—Scantily-clad Ellen Tilton Holmsen, who was "deported" from New Jersey last year because she wore slacks, is shown on the grounds of her rented Maywood, N. J., cottage from which she is now being evicted for wearing shorts. She says she's fed up with New Jersey.

'ANGELS' TAKE R. I. HEAVEN THIS WEEK

PROVIDENCE, July 31 (AP)—The Evening Bulletin in the first newspaper interview granted by him in more than a year today quoted Father Divine as saying he and his staff will come to Newport this week to take over "The Castle," former estate of the late Richard Washburn Child, which was offered to Father Divine by Mrs. Angela C. Kaufman.

The interview granted by Father Devine at his residence at 1887 Madison avenue, in Harlem, set forth that he will "respect the Constitution and zoning laws" in using the castle on Greenough place "for the purpose for which I decide it is available."

WON'T BE A 'HEAVEN'

Mrs. Kaufman, who offered "The Castle" to Father Devine several weeks ago after she had unsuccessfully sought a liquor license for the place, "has shown a friendly interest in the movement, and is welcome to remain as one of the followers" in the co-operative effort.

Father Devine explained that "The Castle" will not be a heaven, but merely an "extension" of "his kingdom."

As for the litigation over the title, instituted by Countess Dorothy Filippoli, widow of the late ambassador to Italy, Father Devine said "the cosmic forces will triumph over evil by fall."

Father Devine denied he ever had considered rejecting Mrs. Kaufman's offer because of the fact that "The Castle" does not have frontage on the beach.

'ALL BEACH' HIS

He said, in this respect, that "all the beach is mine, and all the sea."

"If there was a private beach with this property of which we speak, it would not be a private beach," he said. "This is called that which is my private residence, but you can see how much it is of that which is mortally private."

He said that after he takes over at Newport, he will "abolish relief" and "evangelize Newport finances," saving the taxpayers much money by doing away with "legalized corruption."

Plan Burial of 7-Foot Giant in Vermont

UNDERHILL, Vt., July 31 (AP)—Funeral services were arranged today for seven-foot-tall Hiram Bogue, 78, whose family gained local fame as the "tallest in the world" because all 10 children were over six feet and some of his sons over seven.

Bogue left his widow, who was of ordinary height, seven sons and three daughters. Tallest of the 10 is Max Bogue of Burlington, seven feet, two inches.

SAVES 10 IN FIRE AT STONEHAM

Eugene A. White, 46, of Converse stret, Malden, member of the select blood transfusion squad of the Post 3, United American War Veterans, entered a new field of life saving today when he saved 10 persons from possible death during an early morning fire in George street, Stoneham.

White, returning with his family from a week-end in Peterboro, N. H., noticed smoke pouring from the house, a two-family wooden structure.

After ringing in the alarm he battered his way into the smoke-filled house and roused the occupants. He then assisted Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berg in carrying their two infant sons from their second-floor apartment.

The transfusion squad, whose members are registered at various hospitals, was created to furnish blood free to the needy. The squad has been credited with saving many lives.

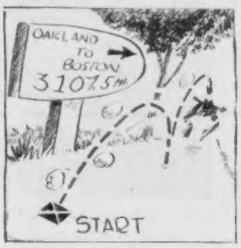
It's Harvard Or Croak for Homing Toad

FIVE MILES OUT OF OAKLAND, Cal., July 31—Hopskip-and-jumping in rare form on the first day of his 600-day, cross-country journey, Travelin' Teddy the Toad today had but 2995 miles to go as he sought to prove that a homing toad's instinct is every bit as good as a homing pigeon's.

Travelin' Teddy, whose destination is Harvard, Mass., the longest jaunt of his career, croaked gaily as he finished his first laps.



"I'm a merry old toad
Of the wide, open road,
And I've given my word
To "out-home' any bird."

Teddy started his long trek at Oakland, where his owner, Dr. Fred H. Sidney, a chiropodist, placed him on railroad tracks outside the Oakland station and said:

"Remember, Teddy—Harvard or croak."

And Teddy, replying, "I'll do both, boss," was given a great, big push—and eastward ho!

This is by no means Teddy's first hop of importance. During one, lasting a full year, he skipped from Dallas, Tex., to Harvard. Can a homing pigeon do better?

No, says the doctor.

"I'll do twice as well as any old pigeon," echoes Traveling Teddy, "'cause I'm an amphibian."

Kelly Challenges Saltonstall

Former Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly today offered to debate Governor Saltonstall on the governor's tax program the question of letting the voters decide the question of a state lottery.

Kelly stated he has reserved radio time from 8 to 8:30 p. m. Thursday with stations WBZ and WBZA and would allot 15 minutes to Governor Saltonstall.

"The public has a right to know why you deny them the opportunity to express their desires concerning the imposition of these varied nuisance taxes, which so vitally affect the income of the average tax payer," Kelly said in his letter.

The governor was not available for comment today because of an extended weekend in Maine. He is due back at his desk tomorrow.

2 Held in Fist Tiff Over Girl

Two men, one charged with assault and battery on a 30-year-old Dorchester telephone operator, and the other her "Galahad" friend alleged to have kayoed the first man, were arraigned today in Quincy court.

Both pleaded not guilty and Judge Nash continued their case until Thursday with $200 and $100 bail, respectively.

On complaint of Miss Mary Conley of Fenton place, Dorchester, Lieutenant James Whelan of Quincy, arrested Lawrence Wetmore, 40, of River street, Norwell. She charged he made improper advances.

Frederick S. Young, Jr., is alleged to have knocked Wetmore out.

Miss Conley provided $100 bail for her defender.

Federal Agents Seize Irish Sweeps Tickets

While the federal grand jury busied itself with details of more than half a hundred indictments anticipated from its investigation of a $20,000,000 nation-wide lottery ring, postal agents today seized more than 1000 tickets on the next Irish Hospital Sweeps.

The tickets each bore a price tag of 10 shillings, or about $2.50, and the information that it was on the Cesarewitch, handicap race, to be run at Newmarket, Eng., on October 26, according to the federal men.

Drawings for the sweep are to be held October 26 in Dublin before the Chief Commissioner of Police, the tickets said.

"TELEVISION QUEEN" of England, Miss Vera Haal, today was in her native America, preparing for Hollywood screen tests. She was named "Miss Television" in Britain because of her perfect recording features.

TELEVISION QUEEN HERE FOR NEW HONORS

NEW YORK, July 31 (INS)—Hailed in London as England's "queen of television" because her perfect features made her an ideal model for the new art, Miss Vera Haal, 19-year-old songbird paused in her native New York today long enough to plan new conquests.

Miss Haal is being rushed to Hollywood next week to take some screen tests there, that is if her manager can keep her off the transatlantic telephone long enough to catch the train.

You see, the young lady is in love—with Eddie Ward, brother of the Earl of Dudley, who is a British steel magnate. George Ward, another brother of Eddie was once engaged to the New York society glamour girl, the former Eleanor Young, who changed her mind and married an American.

Miss Haal says she "likes American men too," but—"well, we're practically engaged and Eddie's a darling."

The young songbird, who specializes in hot swing rhythms and torch songs, said that while she sang over television in London she used to get at least half a dozen proposals of marriage in her daily fan mail. Much of them came from Cockney soldiers, she said, "who seem to be very sentimental."

Miss Haal got an early start in New York as a night club singer and artist's model. She was spotted by a London agent and taken to England where she became a sensation almost overnight.

Shrine Cures Are Reported

FISKDALE, July 31 — Several cures were reported today among the 25,000 pilgrims who had attended the novena at the shrine of St. Anne during the week. The religious exercises were brought to a close with more than 5000 men and women from all over New England gathered here.

Rev. Sylvio Brodeur, curate, said relatives of afflicted persons told him that they had been healed while attending the ceremonies. Mass was celebrated in the grove here at 6 a. m. followed by mass every hour up to 11 a. m. In the afternoon the pilgrims joined in the procession to the shrine on the hillside

Hunt Missing Beauty on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31 (AP) —Failure of Rosalind Johnson, beautiful "Miss Salt Lake City," to appear for a Swedish day celebration at the Golden Gate Exposition sent police on a statewide search.

Detective Edgar Shea said the 20-year-old blonde was due at 8:45 last night (11:45 p. m., E.S.T.) on a train from Salt Lake City. A delegation of the Swedish-American Fair Committee gathered to meet her.

She could not be located on the ferryboat which connects with the train, so Daniel Birgers, committee secretary, notified police. Officers said other passengers had seen her on the train.

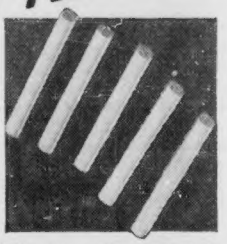
Mrs. Cummings Has Grave Illness

WASHINGTON, July 31 (INS)—Mrs. Homer S. Cummings, wife of the former attorney general, is in a serious condition at the Cummings home here, following a heart attack.

"Her condition is precarious," Dr. Paul E. Dickens, attending physician, said in a bulletin.

By burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them—CAMELS give smokers the equivalent of

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK



IMPARTIAL laboratory tests of 16 of the largest-selling brands show which one of them gives the most actual smoking per pack. The findings were:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Yes, Camel's fine, slow-burning, more expensive tobaccos do make a difference. Delicate taste . . . fragrant aroma . . . smoking pleasure at its best, and more of it! The quality cigarette every smoker can afford.

PROBE NAZI SEIZURE OF U. S. WIFE

BERLIN, July 31 (AP)—The United States consulate general today asked the German secret police whether Mrs. Franz Lem, said to be an American citizen, is in the Dachau concentration camp as charged by her husband.

The consulate based its inquiry on the story of a German, Franz Lem, who said he had escaped from Dachau leaving behind his American wife who, he said, was the former Lili Harrison, born at New Orleans, La., April 4, 1914.

Consulate officials said he had no papers to prove even his own identity or his wife's American citizenship but that his story was being passed on for inquiries.

An inquiry also was sent to the State Department at Washington for a check on the wife's passport which, Lem said, was issued in New York.

He said he and his wife arrived at Hamburg from New York last May 3 and shortly afterward both were arrested and interned at Dachau on charges of carrying on anti-Nazi propaganda.

Lem said he escaped from Dachau July 19 and made his way to the frontier, crossing into France under fire of German border police. After telling his story, he went to Zurich, Switzerland.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 31 (AP)—Donald Hyland, 40, swears he won't tiptoe into his house any more at 4 a. m. His wife mistook him for a burglar, shot him in the leg.

Man Rescued From Son's Fate

Weymouth man was saved today from being crushed to death by shifting sand in a gravel loader only a few yards from the spot where his 13-year-old son was crushed to death in a similar accident six months ago.

And it was another son who saved him, with two other workers in the gravel pit at Weymouth Heights.

The rescued man was Amelio Colesanti, 45, of Green street, Weymouth Heights, who tumbled into the said loader's hopper when his foot slipped as he was cleaning the apparatus. Just a few feet away was the place where his son, Amelio, Jr., 13, had met death in the same manner.

Hearing his father's cries, Renaldo Colesanti, 20, rushed to his side, and with the two other workmen, succeeded in holding back the sand until firemen arrived to complete the rescue.

Colesanti was given first aid and sent home.

Mass. Savings Bank Opens Its New Home

For the second time in its 69-year history, the Massachusetts Savings Bank found itself today in a new, larger and improved home.

The institution announced opening of its new quarters at 52 Congress street, two blocks from its former place of business, where it had been since 1926. For 52 years prior to 1926, the bank had been located on Court street. The new building contains modern banking equipment of the latest type and offers safe deposit facilities in the basement, according to the bank's announcement.

Rex Stout Loses Appendix; Doing Well

BODY FOUND IN RIVER

WALPOLE, N. H., July 31 (AP)—The body of William J. Ruffle, 74, of Swanzey, who died while fishing July 25 in the Connecticut river, was found here, snagged to a fallen tree, about two miles below the spot where he disappeared.

Sea, Fog Halt Squalus Work

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., July 31 (AP)—Heavy ocean swells plagued salvagers of the submarine Squalus again today and divers were unable to get down from the salvage ship Falcon to renew efforts to raise the last of three pontoons which sank July 13.

Officers aboard the Falcon reported to shore that visibility was zero when the time came for the resumption of diving today. Dense early morning fog covered coastal New England for the second successive day.

Deb Elopes With Aviator

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP)—The elopement of Veronica ("Ronnie") Stearns, 19, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Stearns of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., with Douglas N. Lamy, aviator and cafe society figure, was disclosed today.

The couple slipped away Saturday to Elkton, Md., where they were married on a license issued July 24.

They celebrated their surprise wedding on their return to New York with a champagne supper at a midtown night club, then separated, with the bride returning to her family home to break the news to her parents.

EL PROBE 1ST STEP TOMORROW

[illegible] what is expected to be the opening probe of the operations and affairs of the Boston Elevated Railway will be taken [illegible] when the Finance Commission, appointed by Governor Charles F. Hurley at the request of Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield, will meet in the office of Thomas F. Quinn at 10 a.m. [illegible]

It is said that the Finance Commission is prepared to present to Mayor Tobin for filing on the probe, on the idea that [illegible] the city council [illegible] should know as much about the Elevated as does the board of directors. It is expected to result in an interesting hearing.

Don Nace, of note fame, was told that it has the right to [illegible] all operations of the railway.

Also expected to come under the lens is the fate of the Elevated structure on Atlantic avenue, which the Elevated trustees have tendered service for good. The Hub wants the city to buy the structure and pay for its demolition whereas a recent ruling by Attorney General Dever declared the Legislature has a right to exercise the police powers to order the company to tear down the structure at its own expense.

Dog Follows Master to Cell

A little dog, who followed his master wherever he went, finally landed behind prison bars.

When his master, arrested for drunkenness, was placed in a cell [illegible] and dog and master were together again, unmindful of their unfortunate environment.

Lieutenant Tom Tracy, taking pity on the animal's forlorn plight, opened the door for him and away he scooted to his master's cell.

The cell door was opened for [illegible] and dog and master were together again, unmindful of their unfortunate environment.

COUGHLIN DEFIES 3 DEATH THREATS

[illegible] Coughlin, [illegible] today of writers of death [illegible] he would take no special precautions in spite of warnings he is marked to die "by Labor Day."

His statement, which followed by a [illegible] Record-American.

[illegible]

But they don't bother me. I am not afraid of any threats."

All were mailed to his rectory at Royal Oak, Mich., the priest [illegible]

"Two of the letters were postmarked New York. The other was sent from Connecticut," he said.

ONE FROM N. Y.

"All the letters were printed by hand. They all charged me with being pro-Hitler and anti-Semitic. All were unsigned.

"I have not bothered to turn them over to postal authorities.

"In my opinion, the letters were sent by 'crackpots,' or by persons who felt they might thereby intimidate me.

"If the purpose were intimidation the writers did not know they were writing to 'an Irishman,'" he said with a laugh.

NOT A BIT BOTHERED

In fact, Fr. Coughlin said he guarded the threats much as one might regard the humming of mosquitoes.

"The letters do not bother me," he said. "None of them demanded that I stop my broadcasts. They simply stated I would be killed by Labor Day because I was pro-Hitler and anti-Semitic."

Fr. Coughlin said he has received [illegible] since the first [illegible] in which he was either reviled or threatened, but the number are relatively few compared to the thousands of favorable letters he gets every week.

As a rule, he pays no attention to them. But last week, the threats were definite, even to time.

Since last November, when he gave a radio address which he intended as anti-Communistic, but which in some quarters was regarded as anti-Semitic, Fr. Coughlin has undergone a barrage of criticism.

The latest person of national prominence to attack him was Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President.

LOUISIANA POLS FACE SHAKE-UP

NEW ORLEANS [illegible]

A shakeup in Louisiana [illegible] dal ridden political setup was [illegible] today as federal authorities gathered new evidence of graft and corruption in the machine once dominated by the late Huey P. Long.

Newspapermen have been warned not to make public the names of those summoned but enough is known to say the federal government is making the most thorough inquiry.

"Big shot" state politicians, consequently, have been doing a lot of mysterious confabbing among themselves. The politicians who have been running the show in Louisiana since Huey Long was slain in September, 1935, have held a series of huddles in the private suite of Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Probe 'Party Death' Of Chicopee Wife

CHICOPEE, July 31 [illegible] the violent death of Mrs. Anne Ma[illegible] police today as they questioned the [illegible] Edward R. Marowski.

She was found unconscious [illegible] street, less than half an hour after Marowski appeared at police headquarters expressing the fear she had been kidnaped. She died in Wesson Memorial Hospital, Springfield.

SKULL FRACTURED

Dr. William F. Geran, associate medical examiner, performed an autopsy and said the woman died [illegible] skull—possibly inflicted by a hammer.

He found also multiple bruises on the body of the woman, who was the mother of three small children.

Police quoted Marowski as saying his wife and several other relatives went with him to Holyoke to a party, then returned to the home of an aunt in Chicopee. Everyone went in but Mrs. Marowski, who complained of feeling ill and curled up on the rear seat of his car.

FINDS WIFE GONE

When he went out to take his wife home, Marowski found her and his auto missing, according to the report he made to police.

He appealed for help at the station and within a few minutes officers discovered the car, empty, 150 yards from his aunt's house.

Continuing their search, the police came upon the form of Mrs. Marowski. Her face and arms were battered and her clothing torn, police said.

She was rushed to the hospital but died without regaining consciousness.

Aide Held in Allston Bank Theft Charge

Lyman W. Harrington, 35, of Linden street, Allston, for 19 years employed by various Boston banks, pleaded not guilty to a charge of embezzling $1085 from the Allston branch of the First National Bank when he appeared before United States Commissioner Harry N. Gutterman in federal court today.

Harrington, who is married, waived hearing and was held in $2000 bond for hearing before a grand jury. The charge is prosecuted by the federal government because the bank is a member of the federal reserve system.

quickly."

"I feel that the right men were captured by the police, that they were given a fair trial and were sentenced by a competent and fair-minded judge," Phillips said.

WANTS NO DELAY

"I believe justice should be done and I should hate to have a mishap like Executioner Elliott's illness delay or prevent the execution."

He glanced at the floor of the Perkins street store where his father fell [illegible] years ago and went on:

"The arrested men were given complete justice by the law. For the protection of others—storekeepers like myself—I feel the full penalty which the same justice demands must be paid.

"My father raised five children and supported our home, with mother and my grandmother. He worked hard all his life and was just getting on his feet enough to enjoy a little leisure when this thing happened."

"He asked about my meeting with the governor and said that he hoped for a break, because he could prove his innocence in time. He asked that if he had to die, for us not to feel disgraced, because ultimately he would be cleared, even though dead.

"I gave him messages from his other brothers and sisters and he said he would like to see them. He told me that Ralph Robart, chairman of the board of parole, had been to see him last week at the suggestion of the governor, and had talked with him at length. And he told me he would like to see the governor personally—that he believed he could convince him there had been a miscarriage of justice."

EXPLOSION IN BRIDGES CASE DUE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31 (INS.)—Facing the uncertainty of two fierce battles when the Harry Bridges deportation hearing reopens on Angel Island next Wednesday, counsel for both Bridges and the government were busy today stacking legal ammunition.

Two of the major conflicts of the Bridges case will explode when Wednesday brings the opening of the fourth successive week of open sessions.

And each battle will concern itself with the taking of the stand by a witness.

First battle will be over whether or not the government can call Bridges to the witness chair at this time. And the second battle will be over whether or not the defense can command the local radio chain to force the appearance as an unwilling witness, of Stanley "Larry" Doyle, famed anti-Red prosecutor whom they have subpoenaed.

Doyle and Bridges have one thing in common at this time: neither wants to take the stand now.

Bridges wants to wait to testify as his own climactic witness to close the defense testimony. He wants to wait until all other witnesses have told their stories under oath, before he goes on the stand to be questioned, requesting denial on the things they may have said against him.

But the government contends that immigration - hearing procedure gives immigration counsel the right to demand that the alien himself take the stand now—and this they are prepared to insist upon Wednesday morning.

The move is certain to provoke a bitter fight in the hearing chamber, with Dean James M. Landis of Harvard University's Law School, who sits at these hearings as special examiner.

New 'Ism' Probe Set for House

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The House committee on un-Americanism will begin hearings in about two weeks on what members described today as a "wealth of material" about Communist, Nazi and Fascist activities.

Committee agents have been at work ever since the House voted, on initiative of the investigation into subversive activities. They were said to have been especially active in Detroit, Chicago and west coast cities.

"We have uncovered a wealth of material," one member said, "particularly about Communism on the Pacific coast."

GEORGE WHARTON PEPPER, former United States Senator from Pennsylvania, recalls an interesting historical fact in the current issue of the American Legion Magazine.

"It is something more than a coincidence," he writes, "that the Franklin Penny, the first coin minted under the authority of the United States, carried upon its face this homely and salutary injunction:

'Mind your business.'"

'MIND YOUR BUSINESS'

AT A TIME when our national ability and willingness to mind our own American business may mean the difference between getting into a destructive foreign war or keeping out of it, it is good to have that admonition before us.

GEORGE W. PEPPER
"Mind Your Business" His Slogan

The occasion for minding our own national business was never more pressingly upon us, and the ways of minding it were never more clear, than in this time of national peril.

As we know, a situation presents itself which threatens to precipitate a war involving many nations—but which offers no jeopardy to either American security or American honor.

Long before this situation developed, the Congress of the United States enacted legislation providing for the strict neutrality of this country in the event of any foreign war which did not jeopardize American security and honor.

The principal provision of the legislation was that belligerents would not be permitted to acquire munitions or implements of war in the United States—which simply meant that they would be compelled to fight their own wars by and with their own means, without drawing the United States into a partnership with either side.

It is important to remember that when this was done there was no intention or desire to create advantages or disadvantages for any nation or group of nations.

It was an HONEST ACT, honestly designed to isolate the United States from any future foreign war and to keep the United States out of war.

It was the very essence of TRUE NEUTRALITY, and was not conceived with venom or malice toward any country or people or system of government, but constituted a purely peaceful policy by a peace-loving people.

IN THE MEANTIME, the situation which now exists has become exactly the eventuality for which the Congress of the United States had prepared.

We have only to stand squarely on this previously enacted act and declaration of HONEST NEUTRALITY to be isolated from that situation and insulated against the war it may precipitate.

Is not that what Congress had in mind?

Is not that what the American people DESIRED?

Surely our foresight has been fruitful, and our preparedness has been sound.

Now, however, a opposition exists within our national administration to completely reverse our position.

We are counselled to abandon a position that is honestly neutral, and assume an entirely different position that is frankly UNNEUTRAL.

However we depart from existing policy, and for whatever reason, the underlying motive would be to assist some other nation or nations than the United States.

We are now in the most enviable position of all nations of the earth.

We have permanent peace safely within our grasp, for the mere STANDING on an honestly and sincerely taken neutral position.

But we cannot move in any direction from that position without moving IN THE DIRECTION OF WAR.

It would be the most tragic error in all the record of human history if this great American Republic, having this incomparable opportunity to shelter its peace-loving people against war, should throw that opportunity to the winds, and its cherished and hard won structure of democracy and human rights along with it.

Consistency

MY mamma says, whatever comes . . . I mustn't ever suck my thumbs . . . Again she says, "You're just too sweet! . . . You're almost good enough to eat."

That doesn't quite make sense to me . . . and maybe you the point will see . . . that if I'm good enough to eat . . . my thumbs must certainly taste sweet.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -s- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 31

At last we have had a little gentle rain. Of course it won't not satisfy either the farmers or the garden rivers, but it is a help. For that reason, I didn't complain at all when I found myself driving through a misty rain, which around Brewster, N. Y., developed into a regular downpour for about half an hour.

For weeks we have been promising ourselves a drive through Connecticut and a visit with our friends Esther Lape and Elizabeth Read in Westbrook, Ct., but something and another has turned up and we kept putting it off. I looked at Miss Malvina Thompson's desk and at mine and realized what one day of rain could do. I was almost inclined to think that it was better not to leave home. But after lunch we decided to get under way.

REMEMBERING last year's devastation from the hurricane I was agreeably surprised to find how quickly nature heals her scars. Even in the villages where there used to be a continuous line of old trees, there seemed to be a few old ones left and the young ones are coming up, so that the village greens will soon be shaded again.

Miss Lape and Miss Read have done wonderful things in clearing fallen trees from their woods, but it was a sad sight to see one giant maple completely prostrate and many great branches torn away from the oaks and large maples. Miss Lape and I walked down through their woods to a place where they have built a rustic table. They have a nice view out from under the trees across the marshland to the gently moving marshy river and I don't wonder that they enjoy lunching there.

We had a very pleasant evening and got up at an early hour and left for the homeward trip. I find New Haven, Ct., perfectly impossible to get through without being lost, so on our journey we tried a road which is a little longer but completely escapes New Haven. It took us no longer to get home.

Now we are back and the desks look even more cluttered than they did before we left, so I'd better get to work.

Human Side of News -s- by EDWIN C. HILL

PROFESSOR J. B. S. HALDANE, the great British biochemist, seals himself in an airtight steel chamber for fourteen and one-half hours, and demonstrates, to his own satisfaction, at least, that the men in the sunken submarine Thetis suffered no physical pain in their last hours.

Merely physical pain might be the least of one's troubles in this plight.

But in such encounters, men get a counter-surcease, which action seems to be the one anodyne for the thrall of death and pain.

OUR own Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland, comparable to Dr. Haldane in his attainments in the study of human emotional tensions and their physical basis, greatly widened our knowledge in this field, in his wartime studies of the functioning of the glandular mechanism at the zero hour, in battle, or in the moment before and after the supreme danger.

The feeling of a doomed man, with his fighting apparatus quiescent or dismantled, are still a dark No-Man's land of the human spirit, despite such research as that of Dr. Haldane.

One hesitates to seize on the behaviour of the doomed Claude Joseph Bradley, of Brooklyn, for conjecture such as this, but since he himself has so gallantly accepted the word of his physician and is so cheerfully and frankly numbering "the days of his temporal breath," a scientist might, without unseemly intrusion, consider his passing through that twilight zone of life and death which we all must traverse.

CLAUDE J. BRADLEY
Faces Death With Courage

It seems to this layman that Shakespeare was truly, "We who are about to die salute you," and "Brad" chats easily with the reporters about what may lie ahead, we are beholding a vale of human pilgrimage rarely observed and little understood. Mr. Bradley gives a party to his friends, picks up every threat of his daily living and is prepared to treasure it to the end.

HERE is John Masefield's grand book, "The Bird of Dawning." The crew of the clipper ship, Blackgauntlet, are shipwrecked. The cook and a sailor known as Pots are clinging to a spar, awash in the gale.

The cook, later saved by his mates, tells the story: And he says to me, 'A bit of Monty's eel jelly would be a bit of all right. Whitechapel High of a Saturday Evening, what?' And I said to him, 'We'll have a bit of Monty, you and I, Pots, as soon as we get ashore.'

"'No,' he says to me, just like that, me. 'No,' he says, 'I shan't ever see that shore again.' 'I can't hang on to this spar,' he says, 'I'm a London man, not a herring,' he said. 'Why, Pots,' I said, 'We've all got to be herrings in a washout like this.' 'Ah,' he says to me, 'you've got that shape skin, perhaps; but I'm too cold.' And he just let go and [redacted] down."

It is barely possible that poets like Masefield may see farther into these mists than the biochemists.

HOPE DARE CUT $5400 FOR DAVIS STORY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 31. FINANCE DEPT.: Hope Dare, who furnished material for the Dixie Davis magazine articles, received $5400 as her share of the sale . . . Harry Schoenhaus, who was convicted with Davis, received $4000 . . . The family of George Weinberg, the co-defendant who committed suicide while in custody—received $2800 . . . Davis is asking $50,000 for the movie rights.

POLITICS DEPT.: Nathan Strauss, administrator of the U. S. Housing Authority, tendered a dinner in Washington to celebrate the second anniversary of the bill which created his office . . . Harold Rome, the song writer who added "The Red Mikado" to his "Pins & Needles," was a guest. He went to the piano and played a song written for the occasion—a song called "The Housing Mikado"—in which Henry Morganthau, Jr., was mentioned . . . "This is all right," Morgenthau told him, "but if you use my name in 'Pins & Needles,' I want it taken out" . . . "But why?" asked Rome . . . "Because in these days you never can tell," said the Secretary of the Treasury. "Who knows? I might want to run for sheriff."

BEAUTY DEPT.: George White was one of the judges of the bathing beauty contest held at Loew's 175th street . . . Two of the showgirls he has signed for his new "Scandals," Lois Andrews and Betty Allen, decided to surprise White by parading with the other entrants . . . They purchased bathing suits and taxied to the theater. "It's a gag," they told the backstage official. "We won't accept any prizes. We just want to show what happens when Mr. White sees us" . . . "Where do you live?" the officious official asked . . . "On 54th street," they informed . . . "Then you're out of luck," he assured them, coldly . . . "Why are we out of luck?" they persisted . . . "You live outside the neighborhood," he told the "Scandals" girls, "so you're not eligible to become 'Miss Washington Heights.'"

MONDAY MUSINGS: A chatty and [illegible] flippant New York columnist wrote (as of December 27, 1938) that: "Herr und Frau Scholz, the sprightliest pair at the German Embassy, were sent to Washington because Hitler . . . thought this embassy needed some glamour and sex appeal . . . Now they've been shifted to the Nazi consulate in Boston, a strange shift in the diplomatic whirligig. The Capital deduces that Hitler thinks Boston needs glamour or sex appeal or something" . . . Columnists sometimes take a great deal upon themselves, and there is a bare possibility that the author of that paragraph was assuming something when he gave The Capital credit for his final deduction . . . Nevertheless . . . Herr and Frau Scholz were the guests of the Arthur P. Teeles the other night at the Sheraton, and it is accurate reporting to say that they drew a great deal of attention . . . The staff at the Sheraton can attest that numerous inquiries were made concerning the couple's identity . . . If Der Feurher needed only charm to win over Boston, you'll find the verdict nearly unanimous that he has it.

A SOCIETY ITEM bobs up in a survey of the Rialto . . . That new Swiss restaurant, The Alpine, in Warrenton street, is featuring a good-looking miss who is introduced as 'Edelweiss' . . . I suppose the hunch-players will be slipping a deuce on the schnozzle of Foggy Day at the Rock this p.m. . . . Speaking of Rockingham, (and not getting far away from society, come to think of it) the William J. Kennedys of Dedham may be represented with a string of runners when the Fall meet opens . . . Bill and Mrs. Kennedy are considering transferring their colors from the show-rings to the Big Apple . . . They may sell their barnful of steeds—with one exception—at the Westchester Horse Show . . . The exception will be Erin's Son, the nine-year-old jumper who won four out of five stakes last year, and was the leading money-winner in the show world in 1937 . . . The yearling sales at Saratoga may have Mr. Kennedy as a customer . . . And Ed Regan, Short Brook Farms trainer may stand at his right-hand

When Elsa Maxwell made her debut before the cameras at Twentieth Century-Fox, everyone on the set was in a state of nervous jitters—except Elsa Maxwell.

Brought to Hollywood by Darryl F. Zanuck to play herself in "Hotel for Women," Elsa was put through the mill of wardrobe, makeup, tests, and all that goes with it. When she stepped on the set to her first motion picture acting in an important role, Director Gregory Ratoff and all of his assistants worked themselves up into a state of nervous excitement assuring Elsa that everything would be all right and that all she had to do was to be calm and not a bit frightened.

Elsa wasn't the least bit flustered, but the rest of them were.

She put them all at ease after she had done her first three scenes in one take each.

Lane Sisters On Twin Screens

The Lane sisters, John Garfield, Jeffrey Lynn, Claude Rains, Fay Bainter and other members of the likeable "Four Daughters" cast meet again on the Scollay and Modern screens in "Daughters Courageous."

While in no sense a sequel to Four Daughters," "Daughters Courageous" is possessed of many of the qualities that made the former one of last season's most popular domestic cinema comedies.

The stars mentioned are all most happily cast, as are May Robson, lovely Gale Page and Donald Crisp, the latter a new addition to this friendly, attractive group.

"Captain Fury," second feature, stars Brian Aherne, Victor McLaglen and June Lang, assisted by John Carradine, Paul Lukas and Australia's Robin Hood, Virginia Field. It is the story of

THE PRICELESS NECKLACE of 93 pearls which put Frances Hovey of Milton on the front page of Boston papers when she inherited it several years ago, will undoubtedly be the piece de resistance of her bridal costume when she becomes the wife of John S. Howe in the not far distant future . . .

The engagement of the couple was announced yesterday by Frances' mother, Mrs. Edward Clarence Hovey of Milton and Cohasset . . . The lavish necklace was a bequest to Frances in the will of the late Miss Belle Hunt, wealthy Back Bay spinster . . . The will was filed on the debutante's nineteenth birthday in January, 1936, and the document specified that Mrs. Hovey could wear it until Frances became of age . . .

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Winsor School and belongs to the Junior League and Vincent Club . . . Her fiance, the son of John Carleton Howe of Milton, was a member of the class of 1936 at Harvard . . .

Socialites See Marblehead Players

JOHN S. LAWRENCE of Topsfield joined the many North Shoreites who attended the Marblehead players Saturday evening . . . guiding his little party which included the "Tiger" Millers, to seats way down front where they were joined later by Mrs. A. C. Burrage, Jr. . . . The Millers had attended the Nautical Ball the preceding evening and during the intermission they were the center of much across-the-aisle chatter about the [illegible] party . . .

Tillie Tuckerman and her cousins, Lily and Camilla Warren, drove over through the fog from Pride's Crossing, and the Bill (B. Devereux, Jr.) Barkers were in the same row with the Lawrence Miller group . . . Mrs. Q. A. Shaw McKean shared her front row seats with a house guest while Mr. McKean and their twin sons were a few rows back . . . The Charlie Codmans had their usual row A seats and Louise Barbour and her escort were the center of a chummy group which met in the lobby between the acts . . .

Milburns To Live Here

Mr. and Mrs. Devereux Milburn, Jr., will be leading lights in the congenial group of young married couples living in Cambridge when they return from a honeymoon in Honolulu to make their home in the University City.

The couple was married Saturday at St. Peter's-by-the-Sea, Narragansett, R. I., followed by a reception at the summer home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hinckley. The bride, the former Elizabeth Clarke Hinckley, is a sister of Mrs. Charles Fox Hovey of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. Arnold Porter of Cambridge.

For her role of matron of honor Mrs. Hovey wore a bouffant gown of red and white flowered Swiss pique and carried a straw picture hat filled with deep yellow zinnias and blue delphinium.

The twin sisters of the bride, Mrs. Arnold Porter and Mrs. Robert King of Big Horn, Wyoming, wore similar gowns and carried picture hats filled with terra cotta zinnias and cornflowers.

The seven bridesmaids wore coronets of bachelor buttons and carried hats filled with pink zinnias and bachelor buttons to contrast with their blue and white flowered picque gowns.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Northey of Salem and Topsfield and a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College.

Love And Marriage

Job Before Marriage?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

We just about mean the world to each other, and often talk of getting married. But every time we figure out where we're going to live, we strike a snag. He lives with his mother, who owns the house, and while I like her very much, she doesn't seem to like me at all.

He gives his mother so much money a week to run the house and keeps so much for himself. Do you think I ought to get myself a job, just so I will be independent and not [illegible] his mother's way? Accessories To Enhance Fall Frocks

By ANNICE BRINK

"It's the little things that count" is an old bromide, but nowhere is it truer than in the matter of planning a costume.

This is the season when we are tired of our summer things, and shop windows have suddenly been transformed from beach pajamas to a Fall parade.

Sometimes we wish they would not. For we can't be completely happy in our muslins and piques even in sweltering temperatures, when behold the smart black dresses in the window.

The fashion-wise woman has always known the accessory secret that it's far better to go less for the gown, and more for the gadgets than to sink everything in an expensive dress and then ruin its effect by wearing indistinguished jewelry with it.

A Boston shop that has just opened a brand new accessory department has some heavenly things to set off your autumn costume. We have sketched a few of them today, but you should run in and select just the right things for you.

The stockings we pictured were among the most exciting finds of our season. They have a lastex mesh section under the garter line that makes for complete freedom of the knees and defies sagging.

These wonder-socks cost a little under a dollar, and are beautiful sheer and in the newest shades. The shop has stockings of wool at 58 cents.

Their costume jewelry is knockout. We have shown you one pair [illegible] and you will love the [illegible] which costs about $1 and would add fun to the simplest of your frocks.

The [illegible] go with [illegible] and leather gloves are [illegible] Velour at [illegible] $5. At the lower price [illegible] a [illegible] pair of soft [illegible] for $3.

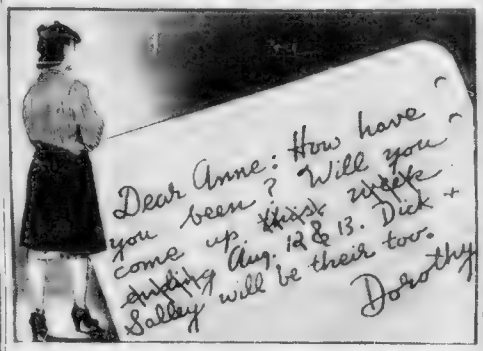
Letters Have Personalities



MAKE YOUR LETTERS CHARMING, WELL BRED

Suppose television were possible and when friends opened letters from us—there we were! How careful we'd be to act our best, look our best!

Absurd? But much the same thing happens. What an ill-bred personality emerges from a letter on a ruled sheet of notebook paper, [illegible] with scratches and errors—and showing plainly the writer knows nothing of good form.

And from a well-mannered letter written on correct, well-cut stationery—what a charming, smartly groomed person comes to your mind's eye!

Beginning a letter with a rubber-stamp remark, "How have you been?" is a habit easy to break, too. And by brushing up on good form, you avoid such social slips as writing invitations without a hint as to clothes, plans, train times.

Friends—new and old—see the real you in a letter like that! From our 40-page booklet, HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS, get pointers on correct beginnings and endings, vocabulary, etiquette.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, How To Write Letters For All Occasions, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 18th Street, New York, N Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BLONDIE Caught in the Draft!

THE Runaway

by KATHLEEN NORRIS

Finding they were having lamb, he had gone out for dinner. Rudeness to mother . . . Inexcusable.

"EVERYTHING all right now, Sally?" Becky's father asked, vaguely uneasy, half an hour later when he was going in bed.

Such a scene had been strained into an interrogation mark since they had all come upstairs. She had heard Becky's murmur over the sleepy, whimpering baby, heard Gavin's laugh and her reluctant half laugh in reply. They had been settling Gibbs for the night, as proud young parents everywhere were [illegible] is from her face to sit beside him. He was speaking.

"Oh, Gavin, that's what I want so much! I want [illegible] little place with a garden and maybe a patio, where we can have his sun baths and some day a sand box. I'd not mind being poor. We could live wonderfully on thirty-five a week!" He put his arm about her.

SEES GLINT OF TEARS

"I've treated you like a fool, Becky," he said in a lowered tone. "But I never saw it! I thought of us as well, kinder having a fight to fight out, you carrying your end here, and I mine there. I ought to have written, and I ought to have sent you money. But I didn't have it and I hated to write and say so. It's one thing to write and send a hard-luck [illegible]

His story was straightforward enough, but elaborated it [illegible] cold little corner of her mind told her. Plausible as it was, it was not [illegible] enough for the sort of [illegible] engaging, tactful man, for no reason, was the sleuthing instrument of the senses. Those betraying senses that were so [illegible] of the dimly lighted room, the scent of young grass and fading hyacinths, all stole in on [illegible] the warm, heartening [illegible]

[illegible] he whispered, deeply moved. Becky saw the glint of tears in his eyes.

Half an hour's work on a June morning. The season was already summertime in baking heat. Becky came downstairs with Gibbs. The kitchen reflected the day's dry warmth even now. In through its two southwestern windows poured the glory of the risen sun.

All the milk had soured, and the cream was just on the turn. Becky left Gibbs in his pen and stepped over to the dairy. No sour-[illegible] [illegible] it met her like a breath of the sea; the [illegible] smell of wet wood and new [illegible] were mingled in that dairy sweetness that is like no other in the world.

She went back stepped carefully, [illegible] pan on her hands. Gibbs was watching for her anxiously; he smiled a broad toothless smile at her. She had to catch him up, when she had set down the [illegible] and kiss him once, twice, three times before she could go on with her work.

There was plenty of it. The steadily mounting heat of the day brought perspiration to her face, head and set a fresh pain between her eyes as she moved about. After Gibbs breakfast Becky pulled on an old straw hat as Gwen and Olga said to gather in the wash. She had been [illegible] after yesterday's blazing hours to get her [illegible] last night.

WORK ACCUMULATES

She folded [illegible] of the hot dry linen, dampened some of it and set it aside, set the breakfast [illegible] cut bread, put on the coffeepot. The remains of a joint were in the ice box. Becky cut the meat into cubes, found onions and turnips and potatoes to put with it, covered the whole with water and lighted a burner on the stove.

Lamb stew. Gavin hated stews. Only two nights ago, finding that the main dish of the evening meal was corned beef hash, he had excused himself and gone downtown to dinner. Rebecca's mother . . . Inexcusable. But he would not think. One could train one's mind to [illegible]

Becky settled Gwen in [illegible] to [illegible] a cup of coffee just as [illegible] Gwen [illegible] Then was [illegible] to do. She was [illegible] when her mother came down, and they had a second [illegible] together, from which Becky emerged up to [illegible] her father and the boys.

SELFISH GAVIN

When [illegible] was off for [illegible], Becky, [illegible] [illegible] out of the kitchen, made [illegible] the new paper and [illegible] with the sheets in order, [illegible] the coffee pot back on the stove and made [illegible] He liked [illegible] [illegible] and fresh peach [illegible] on [illegible] two cups of coffee.

Almost every morning he [illegible] one or other of the women that he never ate cereal or hot cakes or waffles nothing but [illegible] Not this morning!

This breakfast time of his was a hard time for Becky for many reasons. One was that at this time more than any other she felt [illegible] her mother's total disapproval of Gavin.

Sarah loved Becky. Knew how [illegible] to [illegible] and how it [illegible] Becky struggled after [illegible] hours steady work, with on him in this fashion made Sarah's blood boil. It was only for Becky's sake that she held her tongue; that she forced herself to endure his serene acceptance of these attentions day after day.

When the dishes and pans from Gavin's breakfast had been piled in the sink, Rebecca took the cart and went to market. It was a bad time to go to town on a broiling summer morning, but it was the time Gavin wanted to get to town, and one that gave her a little interval between Gibbs's imperious needs.

How long can Becky go on loving and working for this lazy, selfish husband? Don't miss tomorrow's chapter.

YES. THEY BUY MY TINWEAR. I HAVE ONLY THE FINEST. MAYBE YOU'D LIKE TO BUY—
I'D LIKE TO BUY ALL YOUR TINWEAR, AND YOUR HAT AND CLOAK, TOO. I WANT TO PLAY A JOKE ON A FRIEND OF MINE IN THE PALACE KITCHEN.
FOR THAT MONEY, YOU CAN JOKE ALL YOU WANT! IT'S A DEAL.
HOW DO I LOOK?
THE PICTURE OF A PEDDLER. YOU'D FOOL YOUR OWN MOTHER.

Shoe and Leather Markets 'Spotty'

Shoe and leather markets reviews coming to hand at the start of the week reveal a somewhat spotty situation . . . However, despite a few obvious deficiencies there are no indications of a serious let down . . .

FACTORIES . . . Are generally busy, a few but the shoe and leather reporters finds there is a pretty general complaint of a lack of future cutting . . . Many manufacturers it says, are working as close to cutting schedules that the daily mail is depended upon for . . . meeting is anxiously awaited . . . For until its findings . . . are known . . . and upward wage revisions . . .

The leather market is a shade improved . . . For the second successive week . . . displayed a firmer tone . . . With buyers coming into the market more frequently for their requirements . . .

BOSTON . . . Wool circles are holding with interest the reports on new clip sales from the west . . . Kemmerer, Wyoming, sales on 440,000 bills resulted in new top prices for the year . . . With a local firm taking a quantity at 1.05 per pound . . . Sellers this week of 500,000 pounds at one sale last week . . . Prices ranging from 91c to 94 cents a pound . . . The Kemmerer west warehouse sold 170,000 pounds . . . With the clip of one grower going to Hillard and Sons of Boston . . . For the top price paid during the sales . . . Such a strong situation in the primary markets of raw materials . . . Is reflected in the woolen and worsted textile operations . . . One that has rarely failed to fulfill its promise . . .

RICHNESS . . . Of recent weather has had nothing on some high grade bonds . . . The reception accorded some recent offerings may well be a warning signal to investors in the opinion of James B. Bancroft, Boston economist . . . While he does not vision an immediate collapse he does think recent developments may well indicate much less satisfactory market action in the final six months of the year . . . The extreme low yields to which top grades have been driven by investment avidity marks an inflationary move that may take as prominent a place in financial history as that of commodities in 1919, of stocks in 1929 . . . It begins to look as though something gets out of hand every ten years . . .

ROUNDUP . . . Of . . . duction trade and prices trends for the first half of this year . . . The comparisons made in the chart on this page are on the basis of results in the first half of this . . . It is . . . compares that it speaks for itself . . . But in going over it note the absence of minus signs in the first two columns . . . Those that do . . . are not serious . . . Gain . . . loadings for instance will be good on the basis of crop reports . . . Oil well drillings might well be lower as a conservation and price stiffening proposition . . . Prices have not run away . . . In fact the prevalence of minus signs indicates living and business costs were more favorable than otherwise . . .

TES . . . New England mutual savings banks rank among the nation's first 50 in a listing based on size of deposits, the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks has announced . . . disclosing deposits throughout the nation swelled this year to the largest total in almost 125 years . . . Deposits increased by $155,531,317 in the first six months of the year to a total of $10,390,965,709, the association said . . . Among New England banks listed, with deposits on July 1, were: Boston Five Cents Savings Bank, $127,643,639 . . . Provident Institution For Savings, Boston, $121,292,405 . . . Home Savings Bank, Boston, $69,631,655 . . . Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank Boston, $68,415,434 . . . Suffolk Savings Bank, Boston, $57,171,882 . . . Worcester County Institute For Savings, Worcester, $54,593,204 . . . Springfield Institution For Savings, $19,356,725.

Have Nazis Reached Economic Crest?

Has Nazi Germany reached the crest of its economic power? Professor Ernst Wagemann, director of the German Institute for Business Research at Berlin, admitting a "slowing down," blames the situation on shortage of man power.

The . . . about labor shortage . . . seems . . . in the light of the Nazi policy of persecuting and . . . from Germany thousands . . . of the most productive German . . . on the ground that they . . . are blue-eyed and blond . . .

And on the heels of the wholesale wrecking of careers of "non-Aryan" technicians, engineers, industrial managers, builders and specialists, it seems strange to be talking in the spirit of academic calm about a shortage of capital facilities.

To me the significant phase of the newest twist of economic events in Germany is a reminder that human beings . . . are not . . . national assets, not liabilities. This should be obvious enough but in periods of extensive unemployment we develop optical illusions and begin to think fallaciously.

It does not take too much imagination to see the counterpart in the real of politics and new "social" thinking.

. . . already that there may be a surfeit of manpower.

When Nazi propaganda is tested by simple arithmetic, it is difficult to reconcile the present labor shortage with the plea for more . . . by which Germany is overcrowded and needs new outlets for . . . manpower.

Dr. Wagemann . . . takes much pride in the increase of productivity per worker under the Nazi regime, and . . . one observers should not permit . . . prejudices to obscure the progress made.

The ideology has given the worker "a cause" to fight for, despite what free Americans may happen to think of the validity of the cause. But it must be remembered that error, fallacy, and sheer demagogy can influence the course of events.

Charles Mackay's book, "Memoirs of Extraordinary Popular Delusions and the Madness of Crowds," dealt with the expression of popular delusions in financial crazes such as the Mississippi bubble.

Lower Home Loan Rate to 4½ P. C.

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP) Families planning to borrow money for new homes on government insured mortgages will get a lower interest rate beginning tomorrow.

Officials announced last night that the maximum rate on FHA-insured mortgages for small homes would be cut from 5 per cent to 4½ per cent, and that the maximum rate on large-scale rental projects would be reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent. It does not apply to mortgages already insured.

Bar Gold Steady

LONDON, July 31 (AP) Bar gold 148s 9d, unchanged. (Equivalent $34.77)

Bar silver 16 13 16d, up 1-16 (Equivalent $.342 cents)

Stocks Slide Following Irregularity

NEW YORK, July 31 (AP) Traders shifted from one side of the stock market price fence to the other today and the result was generally lower quotations for leaders.

Dissention signs were . . . at the start and mild . . . selling . . . failed to grow much of a following. Later feelings picked up a bit and . . . rose ten to around a point.

The market appeared to be . . . and . . . but . . . to back the . . . of their convictions. There was little alteration in the fairly . . . and . . . and waiting over foreign affairs. Some traders though inclined to proceed warily . . . outcome of the London . . .

Firms in Final Rush On Security Returns

Scores of Boston employers crowded the eighth floor of the Boston federal building today as the deadline for filing social security tax returns for the second quarter of 1933 drew near.

F.D.R. SPEND SPREE FAILS TO HELP POOR

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

(Special to the Boston Evening American)

WASHINGTON, July 31—Mr. Roosevelt's drive for the passage of his "squander yourself into prosperity" bill reveals him as strikingly reminiscent of the fox in the fable.

When the fox and the cat heard the hounds baying in the distance, simple-minded puss, knowing but one trick, promptly put that one into execution, and climbed a tree.

For the fox this was too simple.

"Poof!" said reynard. "I have a dozen tricks for getting away from the hounds. Watch me, while I roll my sleeves up, and I'll show you, you poor ignorant feline."

So the fox's whole batch of tricks passed in mental review. Dazzled by his own brilliancy, he couldn't decide which one to adopt.

At this point the hounds came up, and reynard fell back to his one reliable stand-by—he took to his heels. But it was too late.

Mr. Roosevelt has shown a bewildering line of tricks for ending unemployment, and getting the country out of the depression, but not one of them has worked, and in the end he invariably falls back on his stand-by—spending.

The common denominator of New Deal policies invariably is found to be spending and debt.

It must not be lost sight of that the basic, underlying purpose of the New Deal is the redistribution of the wealth of the American people.

It is to be shifted from the "haves" to the "have-nots."

There is no reason to doubt the sincerity of the motive.

The wealth of the "haves" cannot be taken from them directly, by confiscation, and handed over to the "have-nots." Hence the first necessity is to create a huge public debt.

Once that obligation is incurred, the debt must be repaid. In the repayment processes the wealth of the "haves" is taken from them in the form of taxes.

One part of the share-the-wealth scheme has been largely carried out. Billions of borrowed money have been showered on the "have-nots," but, sadly, they are still "have-nots." They are still jobless—nearly 12,000,000 of them.

The second part is yet to come—more taxes.

In January, Congress would have followed the President in an economy drive.

In July it is clear that, without the leadership of the President, Congress finds it most difficult to economize.

The battle raging at both ends of the Capital today grows out of the failure of presidential leadership in the direction of retrenchment in public expenditures, at a time of world-wide crisis.

It is a tragic thing that Mr. Roosevelt's sole stand-by is spending.

ON NEW FIT YOUR BUDGET PLAN

Borrow on your own signature • Repay in 2 to 20 months as you choose • See how 12 monthly installments of $9.75 each repay $100 loan in full • Prompt service

IF YOU need cash, Household's new plan is a simple, convenient way for you to get it. You borrow without co-makers or endorsers. You repay in 2 to 20 convenient monthly installments as best fits your budget. The faster you repay your loan, the less it costs you. Let's assume that you need $100 and that you can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. The table below shows that 12 installments of $9.75 each will repay your loan in full, including charges. Or suppose you can pay more each month. Six monthly payments of $18.15 repays $100. Or if you wish smaller monthly payments, you can repay as little as $6.41 per month for 20 months.

Simple to borrow

To get a Household Finance loan of $20 to $300 you merely tell us about your needs - and leave an application. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. No one has to sign the loan papers with you. (If a couple sign together). You get your loan promptly. Usually the money is ready for you the day after you apply.

Choose the payment that fits your budget

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which fits your budget. See how you can make very small payments if you wish. Or you can pay larger installments and pay up sooner. Note how little your loan costs if you repay in a short time. A loan of $100 repaid in four monthly installments costs only $6.32. And to get your Household loan you need no endorsers. You are spared the nuisance of asking others to act as co-makers.

In your own interest don't get a loan anywhere until you study Household's new plan. Note the convenience of Household's new payment schedules. Then phone or visit us for further information without obligation.

READ THIS GUARANTEE

We guarantee the total amount figured by using the table to be the full amount you will pay, where payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan sooner.

The table is based on prompt repayment. Payments may be made in advance of the day they are due, if you wish. Advance payment reduces the cost of your loan proportionately, since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 2½% per month, which is less than the lawful maximum.

Another notable [illegible] America [illegible] plans for [illegible]

They are Ellsworth Vines, World Hard Court champion, and Gene Mako, Hunt Cup partner of Walter Pate Dear. Gene [illegible] Hunt and [illegible] both of Wimbledon fame. It is [illegible] Parker [illegible] Pate [illegible] Parker certainly did look like a young man suffering from anything worse than sun-tan when he breezed through McNeill by 6 3, 8 6, 6 0 in the Seabright final.

He is unquestionably the hottest thing around, and possibly Pate doesn't want to risk having him cool off by becoming entered in singles.

DOUBLES SURPRISE

McNeill and Parker posed something like the biggest doubles surprise of the season when they defeated Gene Mako and Wayne Sabin.

Pate, anxious to get another look at the beaten combine, revised orders for Southampton doubles.

His appointed teams will be McNeill Parker, Sabin Mako, Joe Hunt John Doeg and Riggs Cooke, the Wimbledon champions who were put out in the Seabright Doubles semi finals.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY—Tennis Star Gene Mako takes matters into his own hands at Seabright and gives the annoying new fuzzy wuzzy pill a haircut. The whiskered ball has been a pain in the racquet arm to the netmen who have to slug to give it any speed at all.

BUCCS STALL B'S OUT OF TWIN WIN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 31—The Bees got into town this morning from Pittsburgh to test up for the series with the Redbirds which starts tomorrow.

Danny MacFayden will go to the mound according to Manager Casey Stengel who announced he will use the same batting order that played against Pittsburgh yesterday.

The Bees won the first game 7 to 5 and the second was called in the first half of the fifth inning with the Bees leading 6 to 3.

Rain delayed the first game one hour and 25 minutes and when the Bees got off to a five run start in the second game the Pirates started to stall, making the ensuing innings a farce.

SIMMONS STARTS SCORING

In the first game Ralph Birkofer was forced to go the full distance, with Lanning and Sullivan doing the relief.

The Bees drove Swift from the mound and gleaned Butcher hard [illegible] after he passed the first two men. Lanning got the next two men on infield outs but one run scored.

The Pirates got tough in the ninth when Bell started with a single and scored as Vaughan trotted over Garms' head. Rizzo drove Vaughan to a single to center. Klein singled and Lanning was relieved by Sullivan. [illegible] stopped after one hour and 25 minutes. Then Fletcher lined to Cuccinello who tossed to Warstler to double to Rizzo.

Casey saved the day by racing out [illegible] for a hit.

The Bees hot two runs before anybody was out in the second game on hits by Sisti Simmons and Hassett and the aid of an error by Rizzo. After Cuccinello had hit into a force play, Garms tripled to score two more and bring Sewell into the game to replace Klein for Warstler dropped a bit in right to score Garms. Lopez beat out a bunt, but Fette hit into a double play.

The Pirates stalling for time scored two runs on three hits.

Sullivan started the second inning in place of Fette and from then on it was horse play until one was called.

Manager Stengel was leading his extra men off the field in disgust as the game was called.

He declined to enter a protest, in spite of the fact that the field was covered with seat covers hurled by the fans.

Reddish Club Plans 10-Mile Road Race

Aussie Captain Certain Team Will Lift Cup

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 31 (Canadian Press)—Australia's Davis Cup captain predicts his boys will win the cherished silver bowl this year and "should be able" to hold it several years.

"With Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist playing like they are now, I'm almost certain we can beat the United States on the finals," said Harry Hopman, who at 31 is a non-playing captain because "I'm too old."

"America is the only real threat and with the large number of youngsters we have coming up at home we should be able to retain the cup several years."

AUSTEN LAKE

You Can't Buy a Pennant-Tom Yawkey

AMONG THE CURRENT HEADLINES of the week are these:

Look Magazine—You Can't Buy a Pennant, by Tom Yawkey.

Washington—Congress Learns It Can't Buy Prosperity (N. Y. Journal-American).

Your commentator discovers many points of resemblance between the Administration in Washington and the Boston Red Sox. Both are commercial concerns dealing with profit and loss. Both have spent their earnings far into the future on lavish works projects, materials and employe costs. And both have been operating on the pious trust that a benign future will cancel past extravagances and that, in any case, the final reckoning is still some distance away.

AUSTEN LAKE

Being, like Tom Yawkey, a sort of collective sugar daddy, the U. S. citizens have been fetching down in their socks for additional billions when the going got tough, or when the Federal scouts dug up some shaggy prospect in the weeds, like TVA or Passamaquoddy and recommended it to the home office for development.

But the Federal scouts, like the ivory hunters of baseball, often discovered that the yokel schemes which summed up big on paper, were suckers for a fast hook in their first league skirmish. So the citizens, like Yawkey, kept footing the purchase costs, charging them against future gate receipts, the only difference being that, in the citizens' case, the receipts are compulsory tax levies whether they like the game or not.

Each Has a Spending Limit

AFTER CONSTANT FREEHAND SPENDING [illegible] Congress like Yawkey finds that it can't [illegible] by trying out masses of rookie schemes [illegible] Trust and [illegible] actually pouring out their resources [illegible]

Did the Red Sox buy a potential home run clouter like Jimmie Foxx and if he sprains a spleen in Southern training [illegible] But, did the Administration have an extra [illegible] Administration buckered up a cheerful grin and [illegible] citizens [illegible]

Administration Butterfingers

BOSTON'S BALL FANS HAVE THE CHOICE of buying tickets to the Fenway games or not buying them and that lets them out. But the citizens at large have been obliged to purchase seats to the whole national series, paying scalper's prices and sitting in the bleachers while Farm Rehabilitation came up in the clutch and whiffed without taking the bat off its shoulder, or cheap Japanese and German goods trickled past the Administration's shortstop, or a high salaried outfielder like Labor Relations got hit on the head by a pop fly.

This has been pretty discouraging to the home team rooters. The U. S. tax payers lacked the same oppo-tunities of the Boston fans of the pre-Yawkey era, when the players were a lot of [illegible] with French rolls for toes and bananas for fingers. The Boston crowds could stay away. The taxpayers had to attend.

Well, maybe the citizens' billions and the Yawkey millions have already bought a pennant for delivery next year. But the cost of buying a pennant does not stop when the gonfalon catches the breeze and bands play and people shout. It goes on and on. So, before the first pennant is paid for, here comes another pennant race with a lot of busted down political goats in the lineup.

Instead of ever getting back to evens the best that Yawkey and the collective sugar daddies of the Union can hope is someday is to keep their chins level with the annual budget and maybe, by sheer popularity, show a little profit with which to buy a few new bats and balls.

But it is getting now where the people of the Nation would like to cheer a nice, fast double play and score a few runs, instead of watching a team where half the players are making mud pies while the other half cusses the umpires. So it is just as well that Congress and Yawkey have quit trying to buy the championship and are [illegible] back to the sounder economics of spending profits only after profits are made.

DOWN AND OUT—Joe Gordon of the Yanks goes out at home trying to score on a Pearson grounder. Note how Catcher Tresh of the White Sox has ball on Gordon's knee while he successfully blocks Yank second baseman from plate. Cal Hubbard calls play. Yanks split Sunday ball with Chicox to go nine games in front of the Boston Sox, who lost two of three in the Frow[illegible]

Bob's Start Named Best Wager Tonight At Wonderland

By GREYHOUND

BEST BET—BOB'S START—SIXTH RACE

Breaking from the six-box in the sixth race, Bob's Start is given the call over speedsters Tip's Son and Kern.

DAILY RECORD

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

THE BOOKMAKERS have inaugurated a new system in Washington that has the New Dealers sitting up nights trying to pick winners, according to Hap Robinson, circulation director of the Washington Herald-Times, who is vacationing in Boston.

"You can play the new system for $15 a week," said Hap. "The only condition the bookmakers insists upon is that you play every race at some particular track. This means you must bet 48 races a week.

"Your $15 bankroll may get wiped out in a few races, but you can continue playing $5 bets without putting up any additional money. At the end of the week if you have made a profit, the bookmaker pays you off, while if you have lost you cannot drop more than $15.

"If one were to lose $5 a race, he could drop $240 a week on paper, but under the Washington system his actual loss would be only $15.

"The percentage running in favor of the bookmaker is the condition that requires one to bet on every race. The more winners one tries to pick the greater the risk."

Washington, says Hap, has always been race track minded on account of its nearness to Maryland.

"New England is the talk of the country in racing," declared Hap. "The racing has been good here, while the attendance figures and mutuel handle have been amazing. I visited Rockingham Park on Saturday, and had an enjoyable day."

I suggested that Hap must have had a few winners.

"I had Rough Pass, Modest Queen, Be Blue and Wantarun," he replied. "I then decided to take the track home in the last race with Mattapony as my selection. Mattapony looked like a winner for a time, and then came Candy Hero and took all the money."

Before going to Washington, Hap was associated with the circulation department of this newspaper. Hap's success in Washington is another case of a Boston boy making good.

Chuck Charlton shows ability as jockey

Charlton displays exceptional riding ability. He rates his mount well, and has the happy faculty of knowing when to make his move.

There has been a scarcity of first class jockeys at New England tracks this summer. Charlton will be welcomed by horsemen as well as by the bettors.

Likes Lou Finney

Just a word or two about Lou Finney. I have seen Williams, Foxx and the rest of the Red Sox hitters mentioned time in and time out about how swell they are. Of course they are (I like them darn well) but how about a little cheering for Lou. He deserves it. "Reliable Lou" I call him. He'll come through with a hit when one is really needed.

MILDRED B., East Boston.

P. S. Would you settle an argument. Is Eddie Miller married?

Editor's note—Eddie is married.

Praise of Sisti

I think Sisti will make good for the Bees. He will do much to fill the big gap caused by the loss of Eddie Miller. Sisti has youth, can field, and is a fine batting prospect.

KENT STREET, Brookline.

Long Shot Year

I think this is a long shot year for the bettors. What with Andy K., a 25 to 1 shot, winning the Arlington classic, Challedon beating Johnstown for the second time, and Fighting Fox taking the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap. Why bet on favorites in stake races? RAIL BIRD.

Random shots at the target

THE $422,811 handle at Rockingham on Saturday brought the total for the weak to $1,624,834, and the daily average to $270,806 . . . This compares with a total of $1,523,806 last year when the daily average was $253,968 . . . The turnstile count on Saturday was a bit under 18,000 . . . This meant $9000 in money with an extra 50 cent tariff on everybody who entered the clubhouse . . . The first week of the "no pass" rule was a success.

Lou Brouillard has signed to defend his New England middleweight title against Frankie Britt at Fall River . . . Brouillard continues to be one of the most active boxers in New England . . . Dan Carroll rode to victory with Wantarun.

Tech Dinghies In Quincy Races

Quincy Bay Race Week enters the second day with the Quincy Yacht Club playing host. For the remaining three days the fleet will move to Wollaston where they will stop for two days and then finish up at the Squantum Yacht Club.

The feature of today's card will be the first appearance of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's dinghies in the regatta.

The Tech sailors have been proving to be tops when it comes to pushing their little dinghies around the bay and many eyes will be focused on them after the gun starts the race.

The blanket of fog that has covered the bay for the last week lifted just enough to let the regatta make a successful opening with 200 boats covering the bay.

Dr. Leonard Lee's Hard-a-Lee sailed to a five-minute victory to capture the feature Indian class. Commodore Tom Coleman was at the tiller while the Doctor and Mrs. Lee did a fine job with the sails.

METZ SETS RECORD

ST. PAUL, July 31 (AP)—Dick Metz of Chicago, with final rounds of 68–69, won the $7500 St. Paul open golf championship with a total of 270 strokes for the 72 holes, a new tournament record.

Metz's four rounds were 68–66–68–68, breaking the old record of 271 set by Harry Cooper in 1935. The Chicago professional needed a birdie on the final hole for a new mark and got it like a champion, reaching the green with his second and getting down easily in two putts.

On his final round Metz went out in 34 and came home with another 34.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., the P. G. A. champion and year's top money winner, finished second at 275, with final rounds of 69–69. A stroke back at 276 was Lloyd Mangrum of Los Angeles, with cards today of 67–70. Big Ed Dudley of Philadelphia, was fourth at 277, winding up with a final round 69 after a morning 66, six under par for the Keller course.

Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., easily captured low amateur honors with 72–67 for a 278 over the three-day battle.

Saratoga Celebrates 75th Birthday Party

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., July 31 (AP)—There was an extra thrill running through the racing crowd gathered today at the opening of the annual meeting of America's oldest racetrack.

Appearing suddenly for their annual pilgrimage to the little spring-water town in the foothills of the Adirondacks, turf followers realized this is the diamond jubilee of racing's grand old track, akend of 75th birthday party.

Temp rarily, at least, the day's opening card featuring the $5500 Flash for two-year-olds and the American Legion Handicap for older horses was forgotten in the rush to pay homage to the "Ascot of America."

It'll likely be that way for the full 30 days of the meeting.

In all, horsemen will shoot at $400,000 in purses in some of America's most famous races. Today's flash, for example, was the first of eleven two-year-old stakes that should produce the season's champion.

Then there's the Travers Aug. 19 in which Johnstown will get another crack at Sun Lover, the horse which finished six lengths in front of him in the Arlington classic a week ago.

More important to officials and the racing crowd, however, is the start today's program gave the track's jubilee.

Though nothing special in the way of a celebration has been planned, Track President George H. Bull is around hinting at a possible overnight diamond jubilee handicap for Johnstown, Challedon, Sqd. Lover, Kayak 2d and Crava among others.

Right now, however, the townspeople have moved out and the racing mob has moved in.

They've come to live a month in rented Saratoga homes or rambling old, elm-shaded hotels, to go to the races in the afternoon and to fill spacious Broadway with racing small talk.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

Carl Hubbell, Giants—Although touched for 10 hits the Terry meal-ticket came through to win his fourth, beating Cubs 3-1.

Don Padgett and Ducky Medwick, Cards—Padgett's homer in first game with two on was margin over Dodgers and Ducky got three for four to lead Cards to double win.

Bill Posedel, Bees—Won 11th by beating the Pirates, though he had to be relieved.

Bucky Walters and Billy Myers, Cincinnati—Walters won his 18th in opener and Myers' homer with bases full in ninth gave Reds second tilt over Phillies.

George Selkirk, Yankees, and Thornton Lee, White Sox—Former's two homers gave champs 9-7 game, and Lee's seven hitter beat them in afternoon.

Jimmy Foxx, Red Sox—His 25th homer gave Sox win over Browns.

Buck Newsom and Freddie Hutchinson, Tigers—Newsom won his 13th and Hutchinson, though needing help, finally won his first major league victory.

Joe Krakauskas, Senators—Held Cleveland to eight hits as Nats won, 5-2.

Midget Autos Race At Lowell Track

LOWELL, July 31—Alumni Field in Lowell is the scene of another midget auto card tonight.

Doo King of Waltham will be back to protect his first-place standing in the season's point record. King now is only seven points ahead of Rube Anderson.

"Well—folks — another week and I've had plenty of rest over Sunday. We've got a swell card tonight so come on down and enjoy the fun. Some big surprises, too, in store this week for racing fans."

FIRST WIN BAGGED BY $50,000 ROOKIE, 18TH BY WALTERS

NEW YORK, July 31 (INS)—Freddie Hutchinson, rookie pitcher who cost the Detroit Tigers upwards of $50,000, today finally had recorded his first major league victory.

The kid hurler, recently recalled from a siege of seasoning in the minors, bagged the elusive triumph at the expense of the Philadelphia Athletics in the second game of a doubleheader which the Tigers won, 5 to 3.

The Tigers also took the opener, 4 to 0, helped by Buck Newsom's five-hit pitching, Hank Greenberg's 19th homer and homers by Higgins, Croucher and Fox.

UNABLE TO FINISH

However, Freddie couldn't finish under his own power and had to be relieved by Dizzy Trout in the eighth. Freddie gave nine hits in his 7⅓ innings on the mound.

Hutchinson, a winner of 27 games with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League last year, was ballyhooed before the season began as the rookie most likely to cause the greatest sensation.

But soon he was being looked upon as the biggest disappointment of the year.

He was farmed out by the Tigers who called him back to the big-time for another try not long ago. Perhaps his victory will lend him the confidence he needs to wipe out the memory of those early season pastings.

The New York Yankees, American League pacemakers, had to be content with splitting a twin bill with the Chicago White Sox.

The Yanks gained the opener, 4 to 3, George Selkirk's 16th and 17th homers accounting for all their runs. Thornton Lee handcuffed the Yanks in the nightcap which the Sox won, 5 to 1.

WALTERS WINS 18TH

Boston's Red Sox walloped the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 4, as Jimmy Foxx drove in four runs with his 25th homer, a double and a single. Washington turned back Cleveland, 5 to 2.

Cincinnati continued a terrific pace atop the National League by taking two games from the Phillies, 9 to 2 and 5 to 1, boosting their winning streak to 12 games.

Bucky Walters registered his 18th victory of the season and his eighth straight in the opener. Johnny Vander Meer won the nightcap.

The St. Louis Cardinals dumped the Brooklyn Dodgers twice, 5 to 2, each time, moving into second place.

The Pittsburgh Pirates were whipped by the Boston Bees, 7 to 5, in the first game while the nightcap was called after four innings on account of a Sunday six o'clock law.

Carl Hubbell scattered 10 hits and, although the Giants got only five from Vance Page, they beat the Chicago Cubs, 3 to 1.

Tioga Too Wins 69-Mile Ocean Race

EDGARTOWN, July 31 (AP)—Overcoming dense fog, head winds and swirling tides running up to four knots, H. K. Noyes' yawl Tioga Too outdistanced nearly a score of other craft today to come home first by nearly 40 minutes in the Edgartown Yacht Club's 69-mile ocean race around Martha's Vineyard and No Man's Land.

W. G. Saltonstall's yawl Arabella finished first in Class B, with a lead of nearly 16 minutes.

A stout test of men and yachts this year because of the weather, the race ended at 7 a. m. today, concluding the club's annual regatta.

Pea-soup fog from start to finish combined with fast tides to make the times slow.

The first five finishers in each class:

Class A, start Sunday 10 a. m.

Dorothy Leonard Triumphs Again

DESMOINES, Ia., July 31 (AP)—The American women's 300-meter medley relay record went down twice under the onslaught of a trio of "easy on the eyes" swimmers from the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Dot Leonard

The "varsity" team of the coast club, composed of Edith Mortridge, Esther Williams and Virginia Hopkins, won the National A. A. U. medley title tonight in 3:52.8, 8.8 seconds under the old national mark set by the Women's Swimming Association of New York in 1936.

Dorothy Leonard, Worcester, Mass. Boys' Club, won the 100-meters open free style.

Hub Mermaids at Bretton Woods

The Boston Swimming Association mermaids enter the second annual swimming carnival at the Mt. Washington Hotel, Bretton Woods, N. H., Thursday.

Rene Carson, N. E. Junior 50-yard champion, and Patience Hosmer, N. E. Junior 100-meter champion, are in the 220-yard freestyle open.

Gussie Schnabel

Eleanor Kyle, former junior backstroke title holder, and Eileen McCarthy are in the 100-meter backstroke.

Doyle Closes Book On Reds for Flag

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, July 31 (INS)—Ankling along Broadway today we find . . . Jack Doyle . . . betting commissioner . . . already figuring what prices he will quote on the Reds and Yanks . . . in the world series . . . Jack quit taking bets on the Yanks long ago . . . And now he has closed the book on the Reds.

Jimmy Johnston figuring on getting back on easy street . . . when his Bob Pastor tangles with Joe Louis . . . Pastor has been a shrewd hand with a dollar . . . and he's pretty well fixed financially even without the Louis fight . . . How he'll be fixed otherwise after the fight only time can tell . . .

Real reason Joe DiMaggio isn't going for distance . . . as the ball players say . . . is because he's more interested in a .400 batting average than he is in hitting homers . . . He was out too long to give him a fair crack at the homer honors . . . but a .400 mark probably will be worth a $5000 boost in salary . . .

CHI JOB FOR O'DOUL?

Baseball men believe St. Louis is sure to have night ball next year . . . Also that Cubs, Indians and Tigers may have new pilots . . . Lefty O'Doul . . . now managing San Francisco . . . is most likely candidate for one of these berths . . . He'd be a sure fire hit in Chicago . . . where he always was as popular as he is everywhere else . . .

Larry MacPhail is quietly rounding up minor league talent . . . and will be ready to trade, buy or sell in a big way next winter . . . and the Dodgers next year probably will show more new faces than any other club . . .

Undercover tennis feud . . . in evidence last week at Seabright . . . expected to continue at Southampton this week . . . Seems some of the boys don't like one another . . . and with places on the Davis Cup team at stake . . . rivalries are rather heated.

McGRAW WIN SYSTEM

The Reds and Yanks are merely following the old John McGraw system for winning pennants . . . "Slaughter the weak ones and break even with the good ones and you can't miss," Mac used to say . . . And you may note that the Yanks have taken 14 out of 15 from the Browns . . . and the Reds have walloped the Phils 13 out of 14 . . .

And there's a rumor going around town that the Yanks are for sale . . . Know anybody who has a loose 10 or 15 million he doesn't need? . . .

Water Follies Here 18 Days

For the third consecutive year the Water Follies will show in this vicinity only this time at the newly constructed outdoor stadium on the Revere Beach Boulevard.

The opening is set for Saturday night and will run for 18 consecutive days.

Only the outstanding aquatic performers in the country will appear with the Follies, among whom are: Charlie Diehl, the 238 pound diving wonder, Byron Smith, the Kansas City sensation, who was recently crowned professional diving champion, and Jerry Kenney, one of the greatest divers that Australia has ever produced.

Drama of Blazing Liner

When flaming Jap liner Bokuyo Maru sent out distress signals, the American tanker Associated rushed to the scene . . . saved 209 passengers and crew.

International News Service Sound Photos

Calm seas prevailed during the rescue of the 209 passengers and crew of the blazing Jap liner Bokuyo Maru . . . and these two pictures help to tell the story. Above, lifeboats from the ill-fated liner reach the American tanker Associated . . . and (below) a woman passenger climbs to safety. These pictures and one in center page were taken by seaman aboard Associated.
